The Acres for Hamiota board members attended the 40th Annual Volunteer Awards at the Club Regent Event Centre in Winnipeg on Thursday, April 18. They were honoured to receive the Association of Manitoba Municipalities Community Leadership Award. The hosts of the event were CTV News anchors, Maralee Caruso and Rachel Legace. Acres for Hamiota directors were proud to be there to accept the award and would like to thank Mayor Randy Lints for the nomination. As a community, we have many dedicated individuals and groups who give many hours to make our community a wonderful place to live! The group recognizes that countless people could receive such awards. Seeing Manitobans volunteering their time to help and assist young people and those in need was wonderful.

Hamiota Centennial Library Celebrates 40 Years

This is your invitation to join us Thursday May 30th from 2:00 – 4:00pm to celebrate 40 years.

According to the history book Hamiota Grains of the Century 1884 – 1984, page 235, The Hamiota Centennial Library was not the first Library. The Women’s Institute (W.I.) started a library during the 1920’s. It started out in the old restroom building with Mrs. O.J. White as the Librarian and then moved to the basement of the Municipal Office where it remained until 1975. In closing the books were then shipped to the Book Mart in Winnipeg as the books belonged to the W.I.

In Hamiota Grains for the Century Volume 2, fall of 1981 saw a Library Committee formed to investigate establishing a new Library. Questionnaires were sent out and a petition was prepared. Many volunteers canvassed both the Town and R.M. As a result, both Councils passed the by-laws necessary to establish a library. At this point, the Centennial committee agreed to make the Library its Centennial project. An affiliation was established with Parkland Regional Library. The Hamiota Library Board was set up. The Board purchased two lots on Maple Avenue and construction began on the old site of the Red and White Store.

An agreement was made for Parkland to provide the Bookmobile service every 4 weeks until the Library was ready. On November 18, 1983 Pat Kirk was hired as the Librarian. The Library opened its doors on January 11, 1984 with the Grand Opening on February 4, 1984.

In looking back at the history of how the Library came about, the Hamiota Centennial Library was established by hard work and dedication of so many individuals in the Community as well as rural and village council members all working together. We would like to say THANK YOU to all who worked so hard establishing the Hamiota Centennial Library.

Fast forward 40 years and we still rely upon the help of the Hamiota Municipal Council and staff, as well as the many dedicated and hardworking volunteers to keep our Library an important part of the Community . Here’s to another 40 years!

Biodigester Project: How it all Began

In the Summer of 2023, Hamiota hosted a team of researchers from Ontario and Alberta that specialized in Mathematical modelling, Chemistry, Biology, Entomology, and Design in its endeavor to gain a greater understanding of community, agriculture, and how it directly relates to sustainability and growth in rural Manitoba. Dr. Sean Bohun, Professor of Mathematics with the Faculty of Science at OntarioTech University was awarded preparatory funding for an NSERC/SSHRC Alliance grant for his application on Solid Waste Management for Sustainability in Canadian Agriculture. Also included in the collaboration are Associate Professors Dr. Helene LeBlance and Dr. Yuri Bolshan, both with the Faculty of Science at OntarioTech, as well as Project Manager Corrie Geertsen from Edmonton, Alberta, and Community Liaison and Representative, Jana Tannas of Hamiota, Manitoba. They spent the summer in rural Manitoba, researching and developing a proposal to transform contemporary biodigester technology.

Their main objective: to speak to local farmers and community members to see where improvements could be made that were not only practical, but innovative and considerate of the limitations and longevity of the agricultural sector. In collaboration with the Hamiota Municipality, the Hamiota Feedlot, as well as soil specialists and horticulturalist Dr. Poonam Singh and Dr. Baljeet Singh from Assiniboine Community College, the research team is taking an interdisciplinary approach to explore anaerobic digester technology in detail. Technology that not only involves manure, but municipal and crop waste as well. Partnering with local farms and businesses in the Hamiota area, as well as working closely with the Hamiota Municipality, the research team recognizes that by examining the process holistically, a greater understanding of what is needed in Canadian farm communities can be established. This work, through the collective understanding and sharing of ideas, traditional and innovative, could lead to not only better research, but to more resilient, environmentally conscious, and profitable outcomes in the agricultural sector.

In November 2023, the Ontario Tech team, with the addition of research collaborators from Trent University and the University of Ottawa, as well as the representatives from Edmonton, Hamiota, Assiniboine Community College, and industry partner CH Four Biogas, submitted their final proposal for consideration of the four-year NSERC/SSHRC research grant focused on Sustainability in Canadian Agriculture. The decision from NSERC is expected in Spring 2024.

Change MAKERS

Students from grade 6 - 12 can choose to participate in noon hour activities that combine social activism, promoting a sense of belonging, and crafting.

Some of the projects benefit HCI students (polymer clay figures hidden around the school, learning to crochet) while others benefit a broader community (signage for the National Day of Truth and Reconciliation, seniors tray favours, volunteering at the 55+ Centre, hygiene packages to be distributed by Brandon Bear Clan).

The club members were recognized for their commitment to spreading positivity, enacting change, and being advocates for human rights and dignity in two ways: a nomination for the PWSA Citizenship Awards in addition to a donation of support from the RCMP.
